

Every Good Boy Does Fine

Georgia Bragg

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart

Name: Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart

Born: January 27, 1756
Salzburg, Austria

Died: December 5, 1791
Vienna, Austria

Cause of Death: Streptococcal infection in the throat

Age: 35

Occupation: Musician and Composer

Curiosity

What was he famous for?

- He could hear a piece only once and be able to play it perfectly.
- He was a musical genius.
- Was called the Wonder Boy.
- He wrote fast and never had a first draft.
- He composed The Magic Flute, The Marriage of Figaro, Don Giovanni, etc.

What were his contributions?

- He has performed before Marie Antoinette before he was ten years old.
- He has played before King George III also, before he was ten years old.
- He supported his family and grand style.
- He became the concertmaster of Salzburg.
- He taught music to the children of nobility.
- He wrote dance songs for the balls at court.

CROAAAAAK. . .

How did he die?

- He had been sick for only fifteen days.
- He died from streptococcal infection in his throat, leading to many other health issues such as kidney failure.
- Mozart croaked after two hours his doctor came from the theater.

what happened before he died after becoming sick?

- Bloodsucking slugs took out the bad blood.
- He wrote a requiem for an unknown messenger who did not disclose on who it was for.
- He worked on the requiem because the pay was high.
- He started to think that the requiem that he was writing was for himself.
- Doctors kept visiting him and diagnosed him with severe military fever.
- His fingers became swollen
- He became bedridden.
- Began to vomit, high fevers, and had rashes.
- He hummed and tapped out the requiem.
- A musical assistant wrote down the notes for him.

Fun Facts

Extra information:

- He was married to Constanze Weber.
- He had six children, but only two made it to adulthood.
- Emperor Joseph didn't hire him.
- He became huge headed.
- He partied hard.
- He sold his wife's silver and jewels.
- His music was innovative and out of sync.
- Someone ran to get a priest, but the priest wouldn't go because Mozart never wrote church music.
- Doctor did not want to leave the theater because if he went to Mozart knowing that he could croak any minute, it would ruin his medical career.
- He never finished the requiem.

